

Abstract of the Disclosure

An article of manufacture and a method of fabricating an article of manufacture 5 having a first region having an image and a second region having at least some information related to the image on the first region. The article of manufacture may be a textile or non-textile article and the information on the second region may be textual, numerical, symbolic, or graphic in nature. The article of manufacture may be a floor covering, a wall hanging, a wall covering, bedding, or apparel, among other things. A 10 floor covering and a method for manufacturing a floor covering having a first region having an image and a second region having at least some information related to the image on the first region is also disclosed. The floor covering may be, for example, a broadloom carpet, area rug, or floor mat. The information on the second region related to the image on the first region may be textual, numerical, symbolic, or graphic in 15 nature, for example, the information may be provided as embroidered text. The first and second region may comprise similar or different materials and may be mounted on a common backing.